Report of value Added- Course

A value-added course entitled "Medico-legal issues in emergency" was scheduled in the department of Forensic Medicine and Toxicology, Subharti Medical College, Meerut from 18 – 23 October 2021. The course was of total 18 hrs. in duration divided in morning session of 3 hrs every day.

The course was organized by the permission of Dr. A.K. Srivastava, Principal & Dean, SMC&conducted under the guidance and supervision of Dr. Bhim Singh, Professor & Head, Dept. of Forensic Medicine, Subharti Medical College.

The speakers included departmental faculty namely Dr. A.K. Srivastava, Dr. Bhim Singh and Dr. Abhishek Sangal. This course was mainly focused on various Medico-legal issues encountered in emergency of hospital. The doctors report a variety of different issues while facing a Medical /Medico-legal case.

The course began with a brief introduction to different laws in relation to medical practice and defining a medico-legal case. The preparation/examination of a MLC was the core of the course in which participants participated actively. They were given practical case scenarios followed by discussions on them.

Another important aspect of handling a MLC is Preservation of sample in various medico-legal situations. It was briefed on 3rd day of the course. The participants were explained about the importance and significance of sample preservation which actually helps in judgement of a case. They were also briefed about the various methods for preservation of samples in different medico-legal cases.

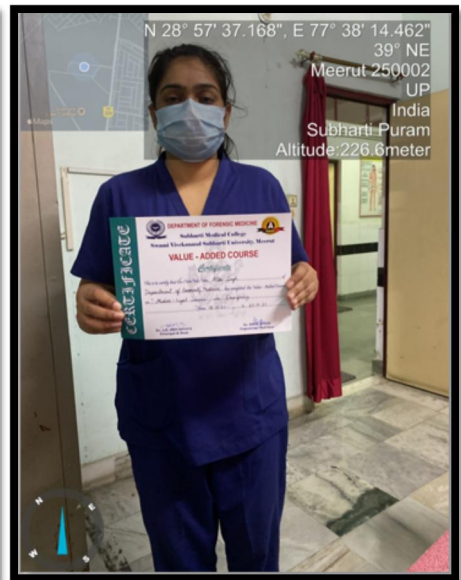

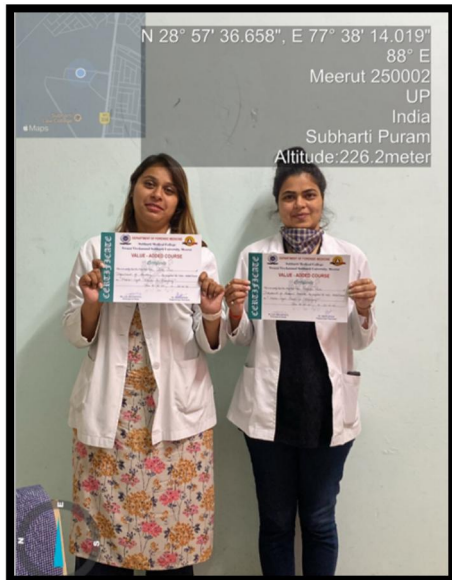

The fourth day started with introduction to Consent in medical and medicolegal practice. The participants were asked to share their personal experiences and they actively participated in it. They queried many problems that they faced during practice and in emergency. Active discussion took place while explaining the procedure to record the statement of victim/patient in dying declaration or while taking consent of a patient before treatment. The speaker pointed out certain common misconceptions and also explained common mistakes done by practitioners during recording of statement. Their queries were resolved one after another and some golden pearls were told to them for handling such situations were told to them.

On the last day, the speaker reminded the duties of a doctor in general and in emergency which generally is missed by many practitioners during their practice. The course sessions commenced with valedictory ceremony and certificate distribution to the participants.
