Report
on
Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions
(Sustainable Development Goal-16)

In 2015, the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), were adopted by the United Nations, having the aim to represent a comprehensive global framework to address pressing social, economic, and environmental challenges. The goals are 17 in mumbers and seek to promote inclusive development, reduce inequalities, protect human rights, and ensure sustainable progress for present and future generations. Education plays a pivotal role in achieving these goals, because universities are acting as the hub of knowledge that influences policy, governance, and societal transformation.

Goal 16 seeks to foster peaceful and inclusive societies by ensuring access to justice for everyone and establishing effective, accountable, and inclusive institutions to all levels. Everyone, everywhere, deserves to live without fear or any form of violence, feeling secure in their daily lives, no matter what their ethnicity, religion, or sexual orientation. Yet persistent and newly arising violent conflicts worldwide are disrupting the global trajectory towards peace and jeopardizing progress toward Goal 16. After a record-breaking number of vivilian deaths in 2024, conflict- related civilian fatalities dropped by 23 % in 2025 (from 48011, to 37163), marking the end of three straight years of rising number, together to identify enduring solutions to conflict and insecurity. However, the number of civilian deaths remains well above levels seen since 2015. Of those killed, a fifth was a child and every fourth one was a woman. Governments, civil society and communities must work together to find lasting solutions to conflict and instability. Strengthening the rule of law and promoting human rights are essential to this process, as well as reducing the flow of illicit arms, combating corruption and always ensuring inclusive participation.

SDG-16 focuses on the promotion of peaceful and inclusive societies, access to justice for all, and the establishment of effective, accountable, and transparent institutions. It emphasizes the importance of the rule of law, protection of fundamental rights, reduction of violence, and elimination of discrimination in all forms. Strong institutions are central to democratic functioning, as they ensure fairness, accountability, ethical governance, and public trust. SDG-16 recognizes that sustainable development cannot be achieved without institutional mechanisms that uphold justice, prevent abuse of power, and foster inclusive decision-making processes.

Higher educational institutions serve as micro cosmos of society where principles of justice, equality, and rule-based governance are actively practiced. Universities host diverse populations and therefore require robust systems to address grievances, ensure safety, and maintain discipline. SDG-16 is particularly relevant in the academic context as it promotes transparent administrative processes, equitable access to opportunities, and institutional accountability. By establishing grievance redressal mechanisms, disciplinary bodies, and inclusive governance structures, universities reinforce the values of peace, fairness, and trust within their campuses.

Swami Vivekanand Subharti University's role in advancing Sustainabe Development Goal-16

Swami Vivekanand Subharti University plays an important role in advancing SDG-16 by embedding principles of justice and ethical governance in to their institutional frameworks. Through committees such as Grievance Redressal Bodies, Anti-Ragging Cells, Internal Complaint Committees, and quality assurance mechanisms, it ensures the protection of rights and dignity of students and staff. Transparent admission, examination, and financial processes further strengthen institutional credibility. Moreover, it contributes to societal transformation by cultivating responsible citizenship, legal awareness, ethical leadership, and respect for democratic values among learners. University acts as the foundational pillars to promote peace, justice, and strong institutions within the broader social ecosystem.

16.1 Research on peace and justice

Stable, inclusive, and sustainable societies depend on justice and peace. Peace extends beyond the absence of conflict, involving security, equality, human rights, dialogue, and cooperation. Justice focuses on equitable treatment, ensuring fair access to opportunities, resources, and legal protections. Research addresses conflict catalysts and conditions for peaceful dispute resolution. Two types of peace are "negative peace," the absence of direct violence, and "positive peace," which includes social conditions that reduce violence risk, such as equality and effective institutions. Peace scholars investigate causes of armed conflict, mediation, non-violent movements, post-conflict reconciliation, human security, and inequality, advocating for sustainable peace that targets both physical violence and underlying inequities. Justice includes fairness and rights protection, with academic discussions covering distributive justice (resource allocation), procedural justice (fair processes), and restorative justice (repairing harm). Research explores human rights access, discrimination, transitional justice, accountability for violations, and marginalized community rights. Peace and justice are intertwined; societal peace can mask systemic discrimination and exclusion, leading to grievances that threaten stability. Pursuing justice may also create tensions, notably when addressing historical injustices. Thus, modern peace studies emphasize sustainable peace, focusing on institutions that handle disputes non-violently, protect rights, and ensure inclusive participation. Conflict prevention explores negotiation methods for peaceful settlements, while post-conflict societies implement reforms to address past grievances. Peace building strengthens institutions and fosters cooperation, and peace education promotes skills such as empathy and non-violent conflict resolution. Research in these areas informs strategies for addressing conflict roots, crucial for political stability and social welfare. The UN's Sustainable Development Goal 16 highlights the importance of peace and justice in sustainable development, a commitment shared by Swami Vivekanand Subharti University by the publications published by its teaching staff members as well as its research scholars too. The study of peace and justice is interdisciplinary and draws upon political science, sociology, law, international relations, philosophy, economics, human rights, education, and development studies. Research in this field examines the causes of violence and conflict, mechanisms for peaceful dispute resolution, protection of human rights, access to justice, reconciliation, and institutional development.

16.2.3 Does your university as a body have written policies and procedures to identify local stakeholders external to the university and engage with them?

The university have the different stakeholders in the form of alumni, donors, parents,International and National Accreditation Agencies, other institutions or providers, accrediting bodies, vendors and suppliers, employers, taxpayers, non-governmental organizations, the government, and academic faculty—both individually and collectively in disciplinary groups and as members of other organizations like unions and advocacy bodies, and the communities around the university are just a few of the many stakeholders in higher education. The nature of these stakeholders' involvement in university is using as a framework, especially in relation of higher education. A sense-making strategy by leaders that is responsive to the wicked dilemma facing the university is further justified by the intricate interaction of stakeholder perceptions, values, and priorities about the operations of the university with regard to education, cost, quality, access, and technology. University uses online survey to engage with these stakeholders. These stakeholders gave their valuable suggestions to the equal opportunity cell, start committee, NSS, Internal Complaint Committee etc.

Academic disagreement or an unconventional view should not alone be treated as misconduct or grounds for adverse treatment. Members must uphold research and academic integrity, respect others, protect confidential information, meet legitimate academic requirements, and comply with law and institutional policies. Restrictions should be lawful, relevant, reasonable, and proportionate.The policy prohibits retaliation for legitimate academic expression or good-faith complaints. It also distinguishes scholarly disagreement from harassment, intimidation, discrimination, disruption, or other misconduct. It proposes an Academic Freedom Committee, a complaint and inquiry process, confidentiality protections, conflict-of-interest safeguards, an appeal within 30 days, and indicative timelines for each stage. Matters primarily covered by another grievance process may be referred to that mechanism. It provides for awareness and training, record-keeping, periodic review, possible annual reporting, and a rights-and-responsibilities matrix. The University has a research culture that supports and motivates the innovators and their innovations while keeping in check the ethical accountability. The University follows the aphorism of beneficence and non-malfeasance. In practice, these two aphorisms mean that as a researcher we have to have informed consent, minimize risk, and protect human rights.

As such, all in vivo studies like clinical trials, bioavailability and bioequivalence or experimental animal studies, the ethical requirements may vary but the basic principle of do good and no harm hold true. Failure to follow these may lead to being criticized and rejected thus costing valuable human resources and time. All the research related work by staff members and research scholars falls within the purview of University Ethical Committee so as to ensure that acceptable ethical guidelines are being followed. The University Ethical Committee has been laying down Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) from time to time which are in sync with the National and International guidelines. The Institutional Ethical committee deals with all the research related ethical issues and grants permission for conducting the animal/human studies. It keeps a close watch that there is no physical harm to human participants and strong justification is provided in case of possibility that participants may undergo psychological distress and discomfort.

All researchers irrespective of their designation are required to uphold high standards of competence, fairness and professionalism in respect of all the work they perform and to comply with the highest standards of quality and ethical conduct in all their research activities.

Never ever use unpublished data, methods, or results without consent from the concerned authors. Due acknowledgement should be given to all and plagiarizing is not acceptable.

Confidentiality: All the confidential communications should be protected until and unless law of the land demands them to be disclosed. The personnel records, and patient records should be confidential and a mechanism should be adopted for obtaining informed consent from the

No- 76 /PS/CEOSTC/2025

Dear Dr. Geeta,

Subject: Workshop on 'Roadmap to Reduce MMR, NMR, Stunting and Wasting in Uttar Pradesh', on January 15, 2026, at Hotel Taj, Lucknow.

Uttar Pradesh has demonstrated that rapid reductions in Maternal Mortality are achievable, bringing the Maternal Mortality Ratio down from over 500 deaths per 100,000 live births in the early 2000s to 141 per 100,000 live births (SRS 2020–22). This substantial progress provides a strong foundation to accelerate efforts further and achieve even greater gains.

The State Transformation Commission (STC) is committed to advancing data-driven development, policy innovation, and strategic reforms to achieve the state's broader goals, including becoming a trillion-dollar economy by 2029 and realizing the vision of Viksit UP 2047. Improving maternal health is central to these aspirations. STC aims to align the state's maternal health outcomes with national and global targets, including the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), with a specific focus on reducing the MMR in the coming years.

In this context, the STC is convening a Workshop on 'Roadmap to Reduce MMR, NMR, Stunting and Wasting in Uttar Pradesh', scheduled for January 15, 2026, at Hotel Taj, Lucknow from 11am-2:30 PM. This Workshop will bring together senior government officials, experts, development partners, and practitioners to discuss actionable strategies for accelerating maternal health improvements in UP.

We are pleased to invite you to this workshop and look forward to your participation and valuable contributions during the discussions.

Centre for Catalyzing Change (C3) is our technical partner for this workshop. For any queries, please contact Ms Sucheta Shukla, State Head, Contact No-8009903598, C3-UP. Her email id is sshukla@c3india.org.

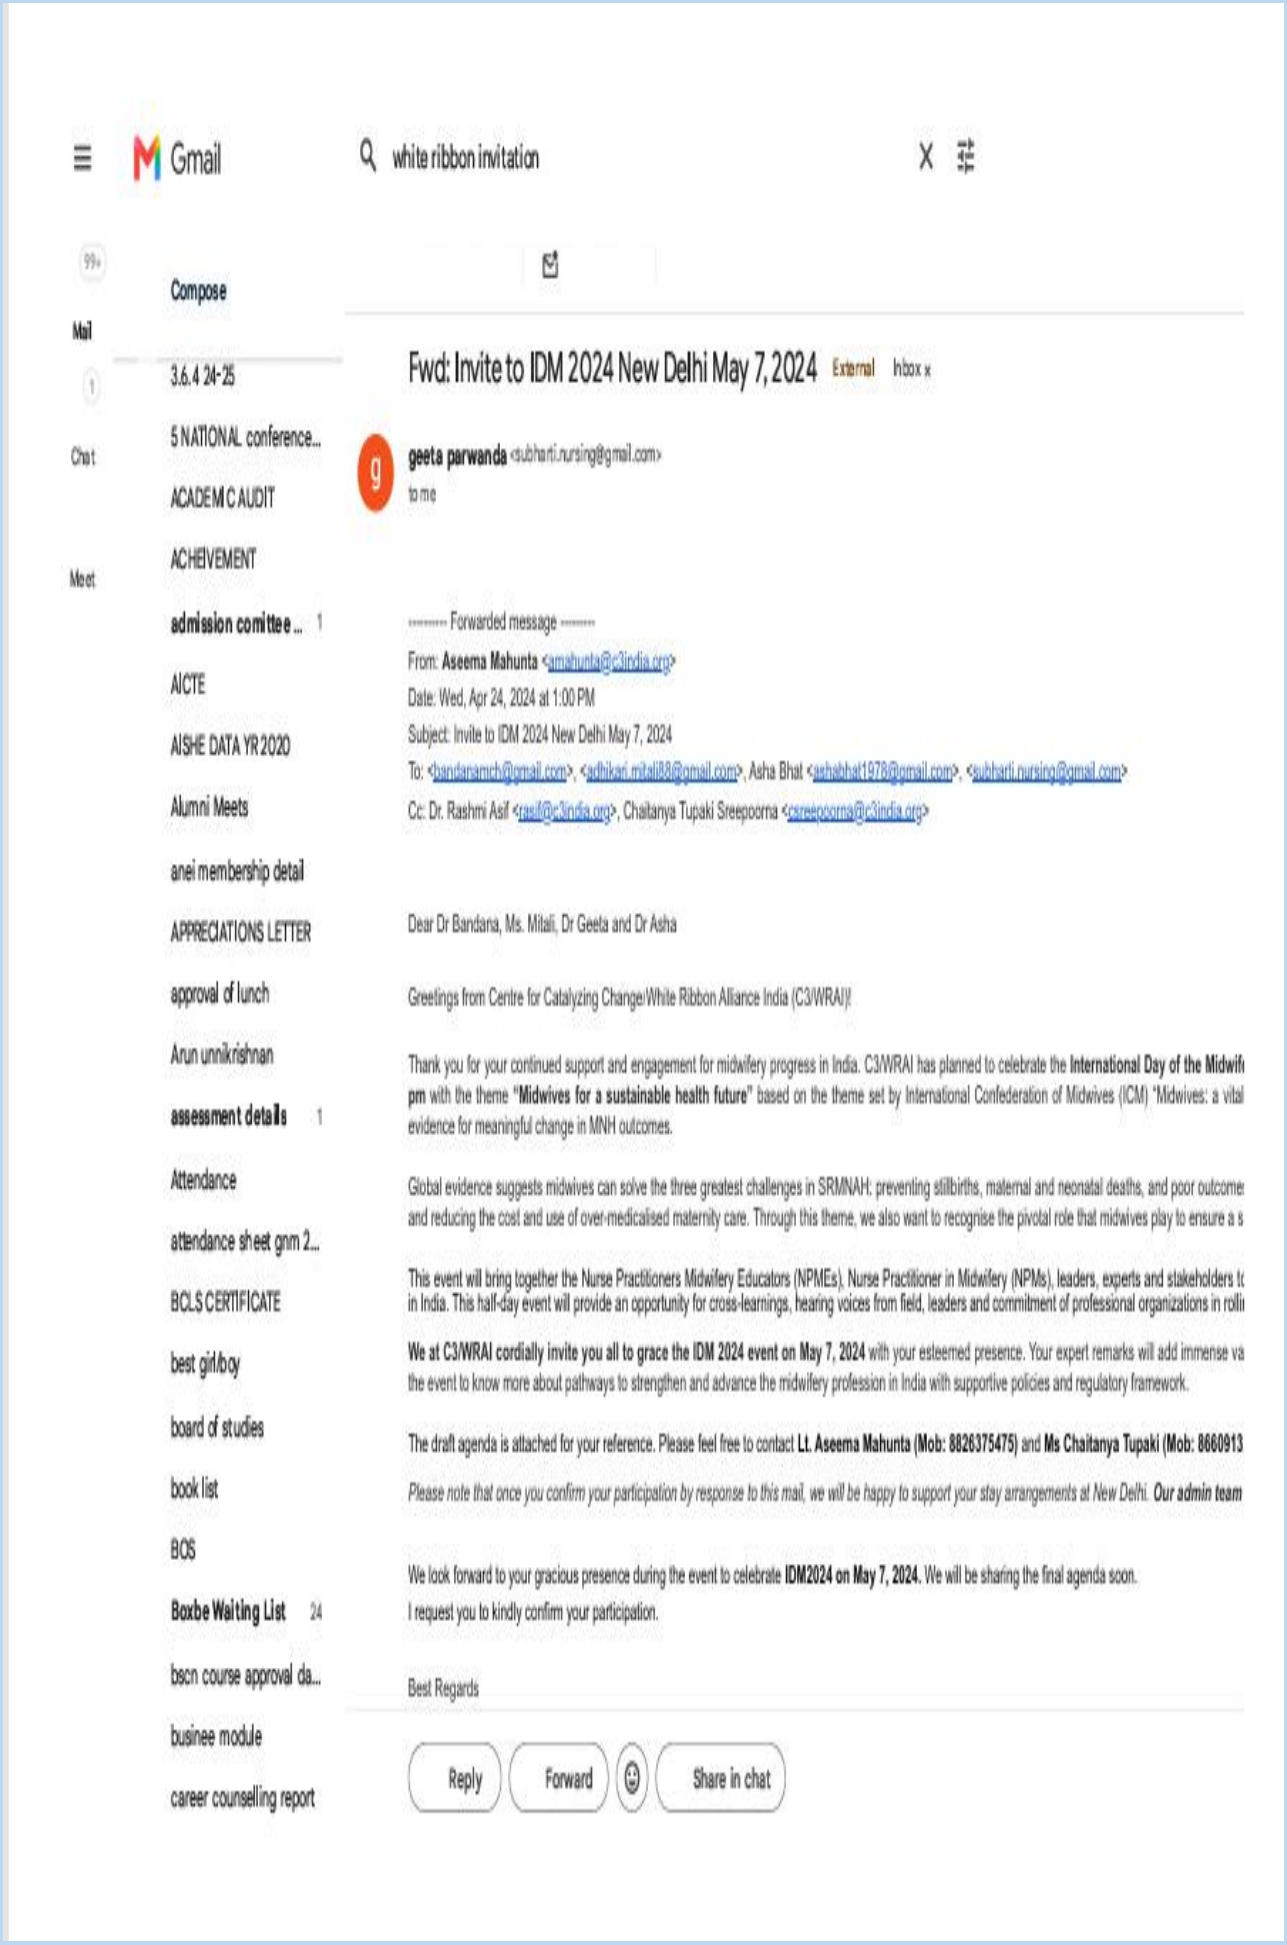

Your presence and insights would greatly guide us in our efforts to reduce MMR in UP. We look forward to your positive confirmation.

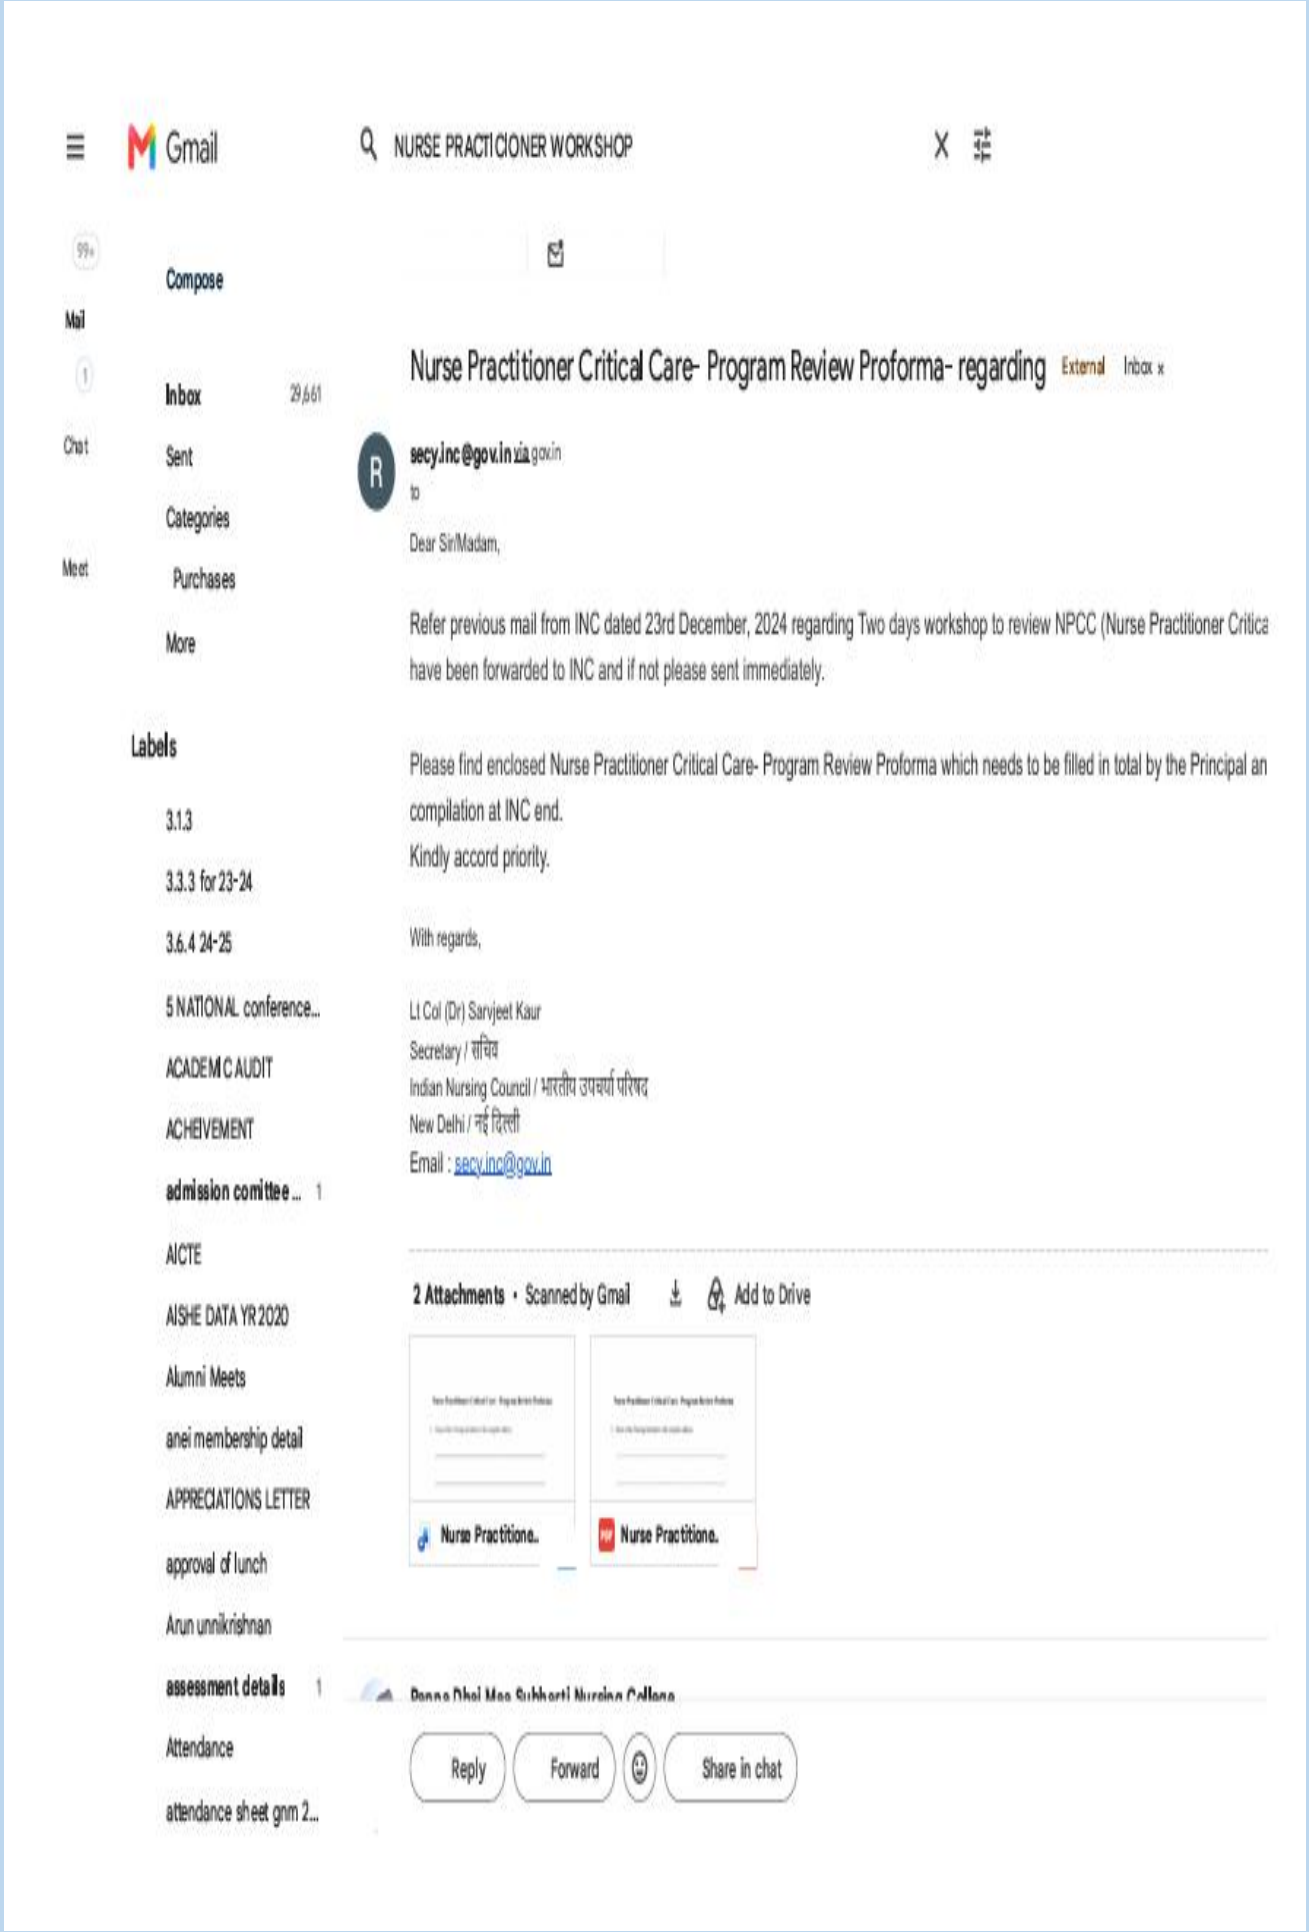

with Regards.

Introduction

The Department of Languages, Swami Vivekanand Subharti University, Meerut, in collaboration with the Gender Sensitization Committee, organised a guest lecture on gender sensitization entitled "Social Attitude towards Gender-Based Violence and LGBTQ." The program aimed to create awareness among students about gender equality, gender-based violence, discrimination, LGBTQ perspectives and the importance of building a respectful and inclusive society.

The program was aligned with Sustainable Development Goal 5 (SDG 5): Gender Equality and Sustainable Development Goal 16 (SDG 16): Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions. SDG 5 focuses on achieving gender equality and empowering all individuals, while SDG 16 promotes peaceful, inclusive, just and accountable institutions. The program addressed both goals by encouraging equality, dignity, non-discrimination, awareness and respect for human rights.

Chief Guest and Keynote Address

Dr. Shruti Nagar, Assistant Professor, Noida International University, was the chief guest speaker. The program commenced with the worship of Maa Saraswati, the goddess of knowledge, followed by the traditional lighting of the lamp, reflecting Indian cultural values and traditions.

Dr. Shruti Nagar delivered an insightful lecture on gender sensitization. She explained that gender-based violence is violence targeted at a person or group on the basis of gender and cannot be viewed separately from the circumstances of individuals, families, communities and society. She highlighted that gender-based violence affects civil, political, economic, social and cultural rights.

She sensitised students about the need to reduce violence, discrimination and gender-based stereotypes. She further explained that gender sensitivity aims to create an equal and fair society in which individuals are not discriminated against on the basis of gender. She emphasised that gender sensitivity is essential for developing equality, dignity and respect in both personal and professional life.

Contribution to SDGs

The program strongly supported SDG 5: Gender Equality and SDG 16: Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions by addressing gender discrimination, stereotypes, gender-based violence and unequal social attitudes along with focus on Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions by promoting dignity, inclusion, non-discrimination, justice and respect for human rights. Students were encouraged to recognise the importance of equal rights, opportunities and respect irrespective of gender.

Faculty Contributions

Dr. Seema Sharma, Head of the Department of Languages, expressed her views on gender sensitivity and LGBTQ perspectives. She explained that gender sensitization is a process of making people aware of the need for gender equality and the elimination of gender discrimination.

Dr. Sarika, Chairperson of the Gender Sensitization Committee, also sensitised students about gender equality and the importance of developing a respectful attitude towards all individuals.

At the conclusion of the program, Dr. Rafat Khanam, In-charge of English as a Foreign Language and Nodal Officer of the Gender Sensitization Committee of the Language Department, addressed the students. She emphasised that every person, irrespective of gender, is entitled to equal rights, respect and opportunities and encouraged students to challenge harmful gender roles and stereotypes.

Felicitation and Student Participation

As a symbol of respect and gratitude, Dr. Seema Sharma, Dr. Sarika and Dr. Rafat Khanam presented a plant and a shawl to Dr. Shruti Nagar as a token of appreciation.

The program was effectively conducted by Shikha Sharma, second-year student of M.A. Hindi, and Vidhi Chauhan, first-year student of B.A. Honours English. Their participation contributed to the smooth and successful conduct of the event.

Description: Sardar Patel Subharti Institute of Law organizes the Legal Sensitization and Awareness Program on the topic"Right to education and Gender in equality".The Law club/Free Legal Aid Cell and Gender Sensitization Cell of Subharti Law College,SVSU, Meerut, this program was organized under the leadership of Dean faculty of law and under the direction of Director Subharti Institute of Lawat AARNA Public School, Rohta Road Meerut. The primary objective of the program was to raise awareness about the availability of free legal services given by Subharti Law College, about gender inequality, Right to Education and new criminal laws among the audience.The Program began with an awareness session led by the convener Law Club Dr.Sarika Tyagi with the team of students, who explained the role of the Subharti Free Legal aid clinic of Subharti Law College in facilitating access to justice for those unable to afford legal representation. She also talked about Gender inequality refers to the unequal treatment and opportunities experienced by individuals based on their gender, impacting access to rights, resources, and opportunities. It's a pervasive issue that intersects with other forms of inequality like race, class, and sexual orientation. Globally, gender inequality can manifest in various areas, including education, employment, healthcare, and political participation. Gender inequality is the condition in which access to rights, resources, and opportunities is unequally distributed between genders, including men, women, boys, girls, and individuals of other gender identities. This disparity stems from deeply ingrained social norms and power structures that perpetuate discrimination and the unequal distribution of power and privileges. Gender inequality exacerbates the challenges faced by those who are already marginalised, making it a critical issue to address to achieve social justice and equality.

Ms. Sonali Roy talked about the Right to education and said that The Right to Education Act (RTE) enacted in India in 2009, guarantees free and compulsory education for children aged 6 to 14. This right is enshrined in Article 21A of the Indian Constitution. The RTE ensures that every child has access to elementary education, regardless of their background or circumstances. After that Ms. Shivangi Kumari aware about the various gender inequalities, she also gave information about the various government initiatives and schemes started by the government for the welfare of the girls specially. Mr. Rahul Kumar also talked about the girl's education system in India and told that to understand anything you are supposed to read your history and must-read Jyotiba Phuley Rao who worked for women education. He talked about the new criminal laws, namely the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, and Bharatiya Sakshya Adhiniyam, which replaced the Indian Penal Code, Code of Criminal Procedure, and Indian Evidence Act.

Gender-based discrimination and bias violate this basic human right, causing inequalities between men and women. Gender inequalities occur everywhere; and at every stage of life, beginning with childhood or even before birth. Gender inequality is discrimination based on sex or gender, causing one sex or gender to be routinely privileged or prioritized over another.We should not make any discrimination on the bases of sex and should treat everyone equal.Ms.Anshika B.A.LL.B.Students told about the The Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education (RTE) Act, 2009 in India, based on Article 21A of the Constitution, makes free and compulsory elementary education for children aged 6 to 14 a Fundamental Right and she encouraged the villagers to take the education of their children on priority.

Karan B.A.LL.B.student told about The "Criminal Law Amendment Act 2023" is not a single act, but rather the new criminal laws of India, which include the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS) 2023, Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS) 2023, and Bharatiya Sakshya (BS) Act

2023These laws replace the Indian Penal Code (IPC), Code of Criminal Procedure (CrPC), and the Indian Evidence Act, respectively, and introduce significant changes, such as making certain crimes gender-neutral, adding offenses like terrorism and organized crime, making video-graphy of searches compulsory, and digitizing the entire criminal justice process.Chetan Anand B.A.LL.B.student told about the duty of good Samaritan. A Good Samaritan is a bystander who takes the accident victim to the nearest hospital or helps the victim by informing police or medical emergency. International Day of Persons with Disabilities (03.12.2025)

Description:

Sardar Patel Subharti Institute of Law observed the International Day of Persons with Disabilities with the objective of promoting awareness, inclusion and respect for persons with disabilities. Students were introduced to the significance of the day and this year's global theme — "Fostering disability-inclusive societies for advancing social progress." Dr. Afreen Almas delivered an insightful lecture highlighting the role of inclusive societies in achieving equality and human dignity. The session covered the relationship between Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and disability inclusion, emphasizing how global development cannot be achieved without equal opportunities for all. Dr. Almas also discussed intersectionality in disability, linking gender, identity and social structures with disability concerns to broaden student understanding. Honorable Justice Rajesh Chandra emphasized the compensatory mechanisms available for disabilities arising from accidents under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988.

He urged students to thoughtfully consider the real-life challenges faced by persons with disabilities and highlighted the vital role of educated youth in dismantling attitudinal barriers and fostering an inclusive society. Prof. (Dr.) Reena Bishnoi explained to students about the existing disability-accessible facilities available in Subharti Law College and at the University Disability Centre, helping students identify institutional support systems. The activity concluded with the vote of thanks by Mr. Ashutosh Deshwal.
